

Joshua Civin, President and Chair, BRHP; Chief Legal Officer, Baltimore City Public Schools

Joshua I. Civin recently transitioned to become Chief Legal Officer for Baltimore City Public Schools, after six years as General Counsel for Montgomery County Public Schools. Previously, he was Counsel to the Director of Litigation at the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc. (LDF), where he litigated matters involving educational equity, fair housing, and economic justice, including a number of cases in the U.S. Supreme Court and U.S. Courts of Appeals. From 2006 to 2009, Mr. Civin was an attorney with Hogan & Hartson (now Hogan Lovells), where he represented public school districts in Maryland and throughout the country, as well as colleges and universities. He graduated from Yale College, studied history at Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar, received a J.D. from Yale Law School, and served as a law clerk to Judge Stephen Reinhardt of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit and Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg of the U.S. Supreme Court. From 1994 to 1997, Mr. Civin served as an elected member of the Board of Aldermen in New Haven, Connecticut. Mr. Civin grew up in Baltimore, Maryland, where he lives with his family.

Margaret E. Williams, Vice Chair, BRHP; Consultant, Maryland Family Network

Margaret Williams is the former executive director and a current consultant of the Maryland Family Network, where she advocates for policies and initiatives that support education, childcare and families. For over 27 years, she led the development of the state-sanctioned plan in Maryland to create a system of services for young children and their families, including high quality child care, parenting education, connection to adult education, job training, mental health and medical care and more. She is an expert in gaining support from private and public child care providers, parents and the greater community for legislation focused on eliminating barriers to education for children from low-income families. Margaret also served as executive director of Friends of the Family, Inc. for 17 years. She is affiliated with the Alliance of Statewide Family Resource and Support Networks and Connecticut College.

Trent Williams, Treasurer, BRHP; President, Global Recruiters of Columbia

Trent Williams is the president of Global Recruiters of Columbia, where he manages business development and focuses on creating an organizational culture of fairness and opportunity. He is affiliated with the Living Classrooms Foundation, United Way of Central Maryland, Bank of America, Wells Fargo, Harbor Bank of Maryland and University of Virginia.

Michael Oppenheimer, Secretary, BRHP; Attorney Advisor, Training Division, Defender Services Office, Thurgood Marshall Federal Judiciary Building

(Bio pending)

Iris Bradford, Participant, Baltimore Housing Mobility Program (Baltimore County)

Iris Bradford is a Baltimore Housing Mobility Program participant and active member of her community. Her volunteerism efforts include supporting the ACLU with fair housing initiatives, serving as president of the tenant council at Somerset Homes in Baltimore, and advocating for the homeless. Iris is also the recipient of funding from the Associated Black Charities and Annie E. Casey Foundation to manage afterschool and summer camp programs at Somerset Homes.

Ryan Downer, Supervising Attorney, Civil Rights Corps

As an attorney at the Civil Rights Corps, Ryan Downer engages in advocacy and public education and specializes in innovative, systemic civil rights litigation with the goal of challenging systemic injustice in the American legal system. Ryan's work focuses on fair housing, employment and public accommodations matters. Prior to joining Civil Rights Corps, he worked for over a decade litigating civil rights cases at both Relman, Dane & Colfax and the NAACP Legal Defense Fund. Ryan is affiliated with the Arlie Civil Rights Training Conference, the National Fair Housing Alliance Annual Conference, Harvard Law School, Harvard College, the University of Pennsylvania Law School, New York University, New York University Law Review and the Juvenile Defender Clinic.

Andrew Freeman, Attorney, Brown Goldstein & Levy

Andrew Freeman worked with Brown Goldstein & Levy as co-counsel on Thompson v. HUD. Since then, he has continued to support other discrimination cases as partner at his firm. Notably, he worked on the precedent-setting fair housing cases of Fenwick-Schafer v. Winchester Homes, Inc. (1994) and Baltimore Neighborhood, Inc. v. Leonard Stulman Enterprises, L.P. (1997).

Bert Hash, Jr., Former President/CEO, Municipal Employees Credit Union of Baltimore

Prior to his retirement, Bert Hash served as president and CEO of the Municipal Employees Credit Union of Baltimore (MECU). Since then, he has remained a steady supporter and creator of programs and endowments focused on scholarship in business, science and other fields. Bert is a member of the Board of Trustees with the Maryland Affordable Housing Trust and serves as chairman of the Industrial Development Authority of Baltimore City.

Matthew Hill, Attorney, Public Justice Center

As an attorney at the Public Justice Center, Matthew Hill supports fair housing projects and legislation. At the center, he leads the Human Right to Housing Project, an initiative that supports fair and equal housing, tenants' rights and the formation of respectful and lawful landlord-tenant relationships. Matthew is affiliated with Loyola College, American University Washington College of Law, American University's Community and Economic Development Law Clinic and Maryland Legal Aid Bureau.

Anne Perkins, Former Thompson v HUD Special Master

Anne Perkins is a social justice advocate with several years of work in Baltimore City and the global community. During Thompson v. HUD, she worked as a special master overseeing the implementation of the Partial Consent Decree. Anne also served Baltimore's 44th legislative district in the Maryland House of Delegates from 1979 to 1992. Her work internationally includes teaching and directing English as a Second Language programs in China and consulting for the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs in southern Africa and Liberia. Anne is a member of the Baltimore Arts Commission and serves on the board of the Baltimore Curriculum Project and Maryland Institute College of Arts.

Barbara Samuels, Managing Attorney, Fair Housing, ACLU of Maryland

Barbara Samuels worked as lead counsel on Thompson v. HUD with the Maryland branch of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU). Throughout her career she has worked on cases challenging discriminatory government housing policies. Barbara is affiliated with the NAACP, Maryland Legal Services Corporation and Legal Aid Bureau. She currently works as managing attorney of the ACLU of Maryland's housing program.

Zelda Tally, Participant, Baltimore Housing Mobility Program (Howard County)

Zelda Tally is a Baltimore Housing Mobility Program participant and active member of her community. Her volunteerism efforts include working with and donating to causes of the homeless and at-risk-youth populations at local organizations like My Sister's Place and Bernadette's House. She is also vice president of the PTA at her son's school. Zelda began her professional career in healthcare and currently works in her field of passion, human services. She is the proud mother of three children, with a daughter in her first year of college. Zelda is a graduate of Anne Arundel Community College.

Bill Tamburrino, Former Director, Baltimore Public Housing Hub at the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development

Bill Tamburrino is a former director of the Baltimore Public Housing Hub at the U.S. Housing and Urban Development. He is affiliated with Johns Hopkins and the University of Pennsylvania.

Philip Tegeler, Executive Director, Poverty & Race Research Action Council

In his position of executive director of the Poverty & Race Research Action Council, Philip Tegeler focuses on research-based advocacy strategies, addressing structural inequality and the disruption of the systematic oppression of low-income people of color. He has published several journals on federal housing policy, segregated housing and institutional reform. Philip is affiliated with Mobility Works, HuffPost news, Building One America, the Connecticut branch of ACLU, University of Connecticut Law School, New York's Metropolitan Action Institute and Columbia Law School.